

There's something special about this tree – but what is it? Is it magic? Does it have healing powers? Can it speak? Can it travel? Is it the most ancient tree in the world? Perhaps it isn't a tree at all... When you're ready, write down your ideas – or just have fun imagining.

Who lives up these twisty, flowery steps? And what does their house look like? Describe this person and their home.

There's something lurking in the deep dark woods... But is that the way you're going or the way you've been? What could be in there? A person? A thing? Should you be frightened of what's coming, or is it welcoming you in? Write down your thoughts and let me know!

Why have all these people taken off in hot air balloons at once? Are they going somewhere special? Running away from something? Or perhaps a bit of both? Why have they decided that hot air balloons are the best way to travel? Who are they? Write it down and tell me.

Er... Is that a face? In the clouds?! Spooky. What's going on here – an alien invasion perhaps, or a weird storm the likes of which has never been seen before? Is something supernatural afoot? What might the people in the houses below be thinking? Write down your ideas whenever you're ready.

This is a magic mirror. But what are its powers? What does it show? Perhaps it reflects the onlooker's greatest desires... or their deepest fear. Maybe it shows the past or the future. Truth, or lies. I wonder who it used to belong to and how you came to discover it?

A ruined castle. What do you think happened here? Was it destroyed by war or by weather, by time, or something much more sinister? Who lived here? I wonder if anyone still does...